NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 22.—Atlanta's Crackers won their way into the finals of the Shognessy play-off with ridiculous ease by defeating those Vols here this afternoon, 8 to 1. The victory, scored before 5,000 fans, annulled a coin flipping act which President John D. Martin supervised in front of home plate before the game started.

The Crackers lost on the toss which decreed that if a fifth game was necessary it would be played Monday. The extra contest was not needed because the Crackers scored their third triumph. The Thursday contest in Atlanta resulted in a 7-7 tie.

Plans for the second play-off were completed tonight in a telephone interview between President Earl Mann, Atlanta, and Larry Gilbert, New Orleans manager.

Open Here Tuesday.

The Pelicans will open in Atlanta Tuesday night with another game scheduled Wednesday. The two teams will have an off day Thursday and play in New Orleans Friday with another off-day Saturday, because of Tulane's opening football game. The fourth game is scheduled for Sunday in New Orleans. If another game is necessary the site will be determined by the flip of a coin.

Tuesday night's game will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Wednesday's clash is scheduled for 3:30.

Mann and Gilbert reached an agreement on their play-off in a few minutes and also agreed that in case of a tie or rained out game the two teams will remain in that city until the postponed contest is played. This action averts possibility of the controversy which arose here. The Crackers claimed that if another game was necessary the two clubs should return to Atlanta because of the tie. The Vols took a different view and were upheld by President John D. Martin in their contention that the flip of a coin should decide the matter. President Mann appealed to the directors of the league, but they upheld Martin. The latter upon his arrival claimed that he had misunderstood the controversy.

Vols, Crackers Beaten.

The Vols qualified for the title battle with three straight victories over Memphis while the Crackers eliminated Nashville with three victories in four games, one of them ending in a 11-inning tie.

The winner of the series will meet the Texas league winner in the annual seven-game battle for the Dixie crown.

Angry Crackers.

Controversy, fear where an extra game would be played may have supplied just the incentive the Crackers needed to end the first play-off in a hurry. President Earl Mann was angry because Fay Murray, owner of

1,614 HOLC Foreclosures Reported as Debtors Lag

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(UP)—The government, which has loaned $3,000,000,000 to 910,000 distressed home owners, revealed tonight that it was becoming tired of those people who think their Uncle Sam owes them a house, and has foreclosed on 1,614 of their dwellings.

Officials of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation said that foreclosures were being made at the rate of some 300 a week, that they would total about 5,000 by the end of the year, and that the HOLC's real estate management department was becoming increasingly busy, renting and selling bungalows now owned by the federal government.

Latest figures as of August 31, showed that borrowers owed and had not paid interest of $41,409,429.48 and principal of $34,283,503.87. About half of this was expected to be paid in December 1. Much of it is overdue only a few days.

ONE WOMAN DEAD, TWO PERSONS HURT IN CRASHES HERE

Decatur Woman Dies of Injuries; Others Reported in Critical Condition
After Auto Accidents.

One woman was dead and a husband and wife were in critical condition yesterday, the result of two automobile accidents.

The death, Atlanta's thirty-third traffic fatality this year, was the result of an accident Saturday afternoon on Ponce de Leon. The other crash was a terrific head-on collision at 9:20 o'clock last night between a street car and a light sedan on Peachtree road, near Roxboro road, one and one-quarter miles north of Buckhead.

The sedan, a 1934 Buick, was driven by Mrs. J. W. Cunyus, 80 years old, of 208 King's Highway, Decatur; died at 8:15 o'clock yesterday morning in Emory University hospital.

The injured:

Mrs. George Bennett, 28 years old, of Duluth, Ga., said to be dying from fractures of the neck, skull, leg and arm, and probable internal injuries.

George Bennett, 32, her husband, probable fracture of the skull and severe lacerations.

Senator Lewis Given Fair Chance to Live

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(UP)—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat, Illinois, who developed bronchial pneumonia last week, continued seriously ill tonight.

Dr. Adolph S. Rumreich, attached to the American embassy, aided by Russian physicians, is attending the stricken senator at the National Hotel. Lewis' entire right lung was affected today. The senator caught a severe cold shortly after his arrival September 14 and has been confined to bed since.

Doctors conceded him only a "fair chance" to survive. Dr. Rumreich summoned lung and heart specialists from Kremlin and Botkin hospitals for a consultation tonight.

COAL MINE STRIKE GOES INTO EFFECT AS CONTRACTS END

Long Conference at Washington Fails To Settle Differences Between Operators and Miners.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(Monday)—(UP)—Wage contracts for bituminous coal workers expired at midnight last night and technically every one of the 400,000 members of the United Mine Workers was out on strike today.

Their leaders, however, still were negotiating with representatives of the operators in a suburban hotel here in an attempt to win a 10 per cent wage increase.

President Roosevelt's train was racing southward through the night from Hyde Park, and it was believed he might take personal command of the situation later today.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who issued the strike call as long ago as March 31, said there was no hope of countermanding the order at this late hour. He said the miners were instructed not to report for work today, and that it would take hours to get telegrams out to local unions instructing them to disregard previous orders.

14-Hour Session.

Representatives of miners and operators held a 14-hour session yesterday. Out of the stuffy room sifted reports that the operators were offering to compromise on a wage increase but that the union was standing fast for the full 10 per cent raise.

Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward McGrath tried to bring about peace. He dashed from the conference room to a telephone where he called the President at Hyde Park and kept him informed of developments.

Today's walkout was the New Deal's worst labor disturbance and one of an assassin's bullet.

S. WEISS REVEALS HUEY LONG TICKET

Kingfish Prepared Political
Legacy for Louisiana
Shortly Before Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(UP)—Seymour Weiss, Senator Huey Long's political confidant and treasurer for the Louisiana state political ticket, announced yesterday in New Orleans that he had prepared for Senator Long an hour before he was struck down by an assassin's bullet.

"At the same time he notified Governor Allen. It does not represent my opinion. I am out of politics entirely," Weiss, however, said he did not know of the elimination of the name of Lieutenant Governor James A. Noe from the ticket last night.

Weiss said, was listed to succeed himself.

Noe Announces Himself.

Noe, 45 years old, is independently as a candidate for governor, and his failure to appear on the regular organization ticket indicated this action had caused Long's death.

Weiss, when on personal business away from Long's side, was asked to explain why the leaders had chosen Earl Long, the senator's son, as his successor.

Weiss, however, said he did not know of the elimination of the name of Lieutenant Governor James A. Noe from the ticket last night.

G. O. P. Boys Seek New Band of Hope

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1935, by Atlanta News-Paper, Atlanta, Ga.)

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Sept. 22.—For the first time in 15 months the republican high command meets this week at Washington to discuss the state of the party and to form a band of hope.

But what detained the lads? Most of them have been loafing anywhere since March, 1933. They're going to talk up a joint partnership with the dissatisfied democrats. That ought to be cozy. Being dissatisfied is a chronic disease with democrats. Nothing can be more dissatisfied than democrats when they're all in office except the same democrats when they're out of office. Alongside of them, Job and Jeremiah were a song-and-dance team.

But there may be loud cries over the present plan to nominate a republican for President and hand the dissatisfied boys second place on the ticket—the idea, in other words, being that if the republicans own the part that does the grating and control of the part that gives the milk, some deserving democrat can be the cow's tail.

Felix Waitkus Crashes in Ireland, Far Short of Lithuanian Capital

Fog, Stormy Weather and Gasoline Shortage Combine To Defeat Young Wisconsin Aviator in Attempted Non-Stop Hop to Kaunas; Flyer Unhurt.

BALLINROBE, COUNTY MAYO, Ireland, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Trans-Atlantic solo flight of Felix Waitkus, 28-year-old Wisconsin aviator, ended today in a smashup in a rough field, but the flyer himself was uninjured.

Fog-bound and buffeted by storms along the Irish coast, Waitkus, who had hoped to fly non-stop from New York to Kaunas, Lithuania, brought his white and orange plane down in a hazardous landing.

Bouncing across the uneven field, the machine struck a tree and was badly damaged. But Waitkus, whom frantic villagers expected to find dead, climbed out of the wreckage and said he felt lucky to escape without a scratch.

"I had been flying blind for a long time," he asserted. "I had had visibility over the Atlantic and when I reached the coast I ran into storms and fog."

"I tried at first to make Ballydoon, a small town near Dublin and then headed for the Ballinrobe drome, but I couldn't find it."

"I was delighted to see land, for I was feeling very tired and my stock of gasoline was getting a bit low."

Waitkus' plane had been sighted over Headford, County Galway, on the west coast of the Irish Free State, about half an hour before the crash, which occurred at 10 a. m. (4 a. m., Atlanta time.)

Unhurt but stiff from confinement in the pilot seat during his harrowing trip over the sea, the Kohler, Wis., aviator crawled from the plane and, after testing his legs, was taken to a Ballinrobe hotel where he went to bed.

Despite the bad weather, Waitkus made good time for the trans-Atlantic crossing. He had been in the air less than 22 hours when he crashed, about half an hour before the crash, which occurred at 10 a. m. (4 a. m., Atlanta time.)

RESETTLEMENT WORK TO COST 225 MILLIONS

Tugwell Outlines Program for Low Cost Housing and Land Purchases.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A year's resettlement program, costing from $220,000,000 to $225,000,000, was reported today to have been charted definitely by Rexford G. Tugwell.

His resettlement administration was said officially to have applications for this money, to be spent by September 1, 1936, before the works allotment board. The major activities planned:

Construction of from three to five large low-cost housing projects, to provide homes for from 1,000 to 2,000 families, near large cities.

Purchase of from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 acres of submarginal lands.

Addition of from 50,000 to 75,000 families to the rural rehabilitation rolls.

In addition to the large low-cost suburban housing projects it was learned the administration may, if funds are available, build from eight to ten smaller communities, to house from 100 to 300 families.

These projects will be in addition to the 30 suburban and rural communities completed or under construction, which were taken over from the old subsistence homesteads division of the interior department and from the rehabilitation division of FERA.

These projects will be continued and operated by the resettlement administration.

The resettlement administration already has exercised options on approximately 3,500,000 acres of submarginal lands, and it was hoped to increase this total to from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 acres within a year.

Now listed as rural rehabilitation clients are approximately 350,000 farm families, taken over from FERA. It was expected that this list will be increased to 400,000 or 425,000 families within a year. Loans and grants are made to families taken from relief rolls, and to those which would go on relief rolls if help were not provided.

Projects have been outlined, it was learned, which would cost considerably more than $225,000,000, but it was not expected that the program would exceed that amount for one year.

IL DUCE OFFERS PLAN FOR HALTING CAMPAIGN

peace proposals to meet Italian aspirations is attributable in part to the attitude taken by Capt. Anthony Eden in the final committee sessions.

Britain Takes Lead. Britain, likewise, has taken the lead in laying the groundwork for League sanctions if Italy makes unprovoked attack upon Ethiopia. Sir Samuel Hoare's address to the League assembly was a strong plea for collective support of the covenant and the massing of a British fleet in the Mediterranean.

Many doubt Britain will consent to expanding the offer to meet Mussolini's demands. Proposals which would satisfy Il Duce probably would be viewed as violating the covenant's guarantee to protect Ethiopia's sovereignty. Also they would give Italy a strategic foothold on Britain's "life line of empire" through the Red sea.

The Italian cabinet action of Saturday is viewed by some diplomats as a clever move to put final responsibility for war or peace up to the League rather than Italy. If Italy goes to war on the League's refusal to meet her conditions in Ethiopia, her position is not so flagrant as if she marched on her own.

Demands a Bombshell. The three Italian demands were a bombshell to the few high League officials and delegates who heard them. Optimists were encouraged by the fact Mussolini finally had answered the plea of the British and French to submit counter-proposals.

However, leading statesmen said privately that the Italian terms were utterly unsatisfactory and forecast that the League would reject them unequivocally in their present form.

It remains to be seen whether Mussolini will compromise still more. Even so slight a gesture as today's is a far cry from his uncompromising attitude of a short time ago before Britain had thrown a hissing fleet at the fleet across the Suez canal. Then he declared it was inconceivable that Italy would bring home its East African army, without a shot being fired, unless she were granted a "complete protectorate" over Ethiopia.

The reported Italian counter-proposals failed to halt the negotiations among delegates. It still was believed generally that, in event of war, economic measures would be imposed immediately. Military sanctions require a unanimous vote of the council, with the parties involved abstaining, and will require more consideration.

Sanctions May Be Asked. It was reported reliably tonight that the British will propose economic and financial sanctions against Italy as soon as the Italian troops march into Ethiopia. The British envisage a "gentleman's agreement" among League members to cease dealings with Italy, possibly enforced by a council recommendation.

The British feel that such a boycott should be developed gradually toward the point where Italy would be unable to buy foodstuffs and raw materials. Any definite agreement not to sell essential materials might encounter opposition from the United States and other non-League cotton growers. On the other hand, by cutting off Italy's credit, she would be prevented from buying United States cotton.

Should Italy resist such economic strangulation by seizing cargo ships in the Mediterranean she would court military sanctions, if not war with League members.

Many diplomats agree that in event of military sanctions the council merely would authorize Britain to use her fleet against Italy in the Mediterranean. France hardly could be expected to engage in military activity against Italy, since it would require withdrawing troops from her eastern frontier and expose her to Germany.

YANKEE IS POWER BEHIND SELASSIE

Emperor's Financial Adviser Keeps Tight Grip on Nation's Pocketbook.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Everett Andrews Colson, Maine Yankee, who may be described as "a power behind the throne" in Ethiopia, carried on today at Emperor Haile Selassie's side despite doctor's orders to seek a lower altitude.

Throughout the present crisis Colson has been constantly at his employer's elbow, guiding the imperial hand.

Most of Selassie's speeches, radio broadcasts and state papers have been prepared with Colson's advice. With Jacques Aueron, Swiss legal adviser, and General De Vergin, military adviser, Colson completes what foreigners here call the "holy trinity" of Selassie's shadow cabinet.

Colson, who was once a poor boy in Warren, Maine, began his financial administrative experience in 1904, as chief of the civil service bureau in the Philippines.

After serving as auditor in the American expeditionary force in France, he went to Haiti as an assistant to the American financial adviser and remained there several years.

He came to Ethiopia in 1930. Since then he has held the purse strings of the African empire, giving out money sparingly on the basis of true New England frugality.

Colson's constant inspiration and support is his equally modest and retiring wife, who was formerly Anna Johnson, of Greenup county, Kentucky.

The Colsons have one son, Edward, 16, now in school in Boston. Their plain 4-room bungalow here is not only a mecca for persons seeking an audience with the emperor but a rendezvous for all Jodely Americans, to whom Mrs. Colson is a charming and hospitable hostess.

Brazilians Born, Bedded and Buried In Hammocks, Rev. Russell Finds

This is the 18th of a series of articles on South American travel written for readers of The Constitution by the Rev. Henry Edward Russell, of McDonough, Ga.—Editors Note.

CAMBOREIO, Ceara, Brazil, Aug. 27.—Long before daylight we were bounding over the uneven stone road that leads from Fortaleza into the interior of the state of Ceara. There are two cars employed to carry us through Ceara, Rio Grande de Norte, Parahyba and into the state of Pernambuco to Garanhuns, the second city of that state. One car, a V-8, carries the passengers and the other, an ancient Nash, carries the baggage.

Today we made about 100 miles in the 16 hours that we spent on the road—perhaps it is a bit modest to apply that name to the trail which we followed.

However, the government is making some effort to improve the roads in this section, and we were very happy to see a large new tractor from Peoria, Ill., that was being used in this work, come along just in time to help us over a hill.

Fortunately no one was injured in this accident and with the aid of the tractor crew we were able to go in a short while.

Dense Equatorial Growth. During the first part of the day's run we passed through the dense equatorial growth that is found near the coast. Here palm, fruit, and flowering trees grow in profusion and the woods are dense beyond description. After a few miles this growth gives way to a rolling land that is still covered with luxuriant vegetation but not of the same richness as the belt near the sea.

In this section we found the Carnauba palm that produces the wax of the same name which is used for the manufacture of phonograph records, shoe polish and other commodities.

Selassie Takes Hope Over Week-End That Italian War May Be Averted

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie took heart today as he studied week-end telegrams offering hope that war might be averted.

The conciliatory tone of the Italian declaration of the League of Nations peace proposals and the British naval display in the Mediterranean encouraged him as he read reports of important conversations of ambassadors in Washington, London, Paris and Rome.

The emperor's advisers contrasted the moderate tone of Premier Mussolini's league reply with the bluntness of former communications refusing all compromise offers.

Still, the emperor took no unnecessary chances. He continued strengthening his forces at key positions, reckoning that the approaching day of war might encourage Il Duce to launch a surprise attack.

Air Raid Unlikely. At the same time he thought it unlikely that the dictator would imperil the lives of his own consuls, now plodding through the mud toward Addis Ababa from the Sudan.

Foreigners here felt the continued presence of Italian Minister Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci was the best guarantee against air raids.

Asked by The Associated Press when he was leaving, Vinci replied with a casual smile: "I had not thought of leaving."

Selassie's formal acceptance of the League committee's five peace proposals waited upon his receipt of the full text. His main fear seemed to be that the chief delegate appointed by the League on the proposed Ethiopian mission would prove to be a sort of high commissioner similar to the British high commissioner in Egypt.

Fears Represented as Being Unalterably Opposed to Anything Suggestive to Impairment of his sovereignty. He feared surrender to the League in this respect might ultimately open the way for Italian control of his country.

Sources close to the emperor indicated he probably would not object to having an advisory or technical commission but would reject outright anythingavoring of Italian domination.

The proposal to disarm civilians also has raised difficulties. Every Ethiopian has his standing arms, country squires their armed escorts which, as in the middle ages in Europe, are a sign of position and prestige.

The light circulated, however, that the emperor might welcome some scheme of disarmament which would render his semi-independent chiefs in outlying provinces less capable of defying him without antagonizing them at the outset.

Government Arms Depot. One suggestion heard was that all arms save those pertaining to the standing army be deposited in government depots on the understanding that they might be reissued in the event of war.

Under an existing tripartite agreement, Ethiopia is supposed to maintain and register all arms for the control of inspectors and to destroy surplus.

Americans and Europeans, knowing that all arms and weapons must be made air raid possible, scanned the heavens for portents of spring. Natives said flocks of vultures and hawks wheeling lazily over the mountain peaks and the desert were near. Spasmodic downpours are replacing the steady downpours of past weeks.

Foreigners, amused at the impression of the outside world that Addis Ababa constantly sweaters in tropical heat, are wearing their overcoats by day and sleeping under triple blankets at night. The cold seems more acute for those not acclimated because the houses and hotels lack heating. About the only inside fires are those in the emperor's palace.

SPAIN BIDS FAREWELL TO FAMED MATADOR

MADRID, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Spanish bullfight fad today bid farewell to the greatest matador in the world, in what was announced as his last appearance previous to retirement.

Belmonte received the ears of the bulls he killed in recognition of his skillful work, and was carried from the arena on the shoulders of fans at the end of the performance.

THE NEWEST THING IN TOWN SAVES YOU MONEY

Of importance to the thrifty housewives of Atlanta is the announcement that the Georgia Florida Fruit & Vegetable Growers' Association, organized with the California Fruit Exchange, has appointed the BUCKHEAD FARMERS' MARKET its distributing agent for this territory.

This connection with the largest growers in America will enable the people of Atlanta and surrounding territory to buy each day the very choicest fruits and vegetables, in large and small quantities, at the wholesale prices. This means a tremendous saving on all essential food products, a considerable item of expense in every family budget.

The first large truck shipment has already reached Atlanta at the Buckhead Farmers' Market, West Peachtree Ferry road at Peachtree, this morning.

The idea of a one-stop shopping center where a complete line of food products and other household necessities may be obtained, through direct buying from growers and producers, originated with P. C. McDuffie, prominent Atlantan, who erected the Buckhead market. Since its opening it has attracted widespread and favorable comment, over 1,000 people having visited the market the last week-end to do their shopping.

In addition the fruit and vegetable department, operated under the supervision of the Growers' Association, the market handles the finest western meats, Warren's live poultry, a complete line of staple and fancy groceries, Gaymont milk, Mrs. Davies' cakes and a wide variety of beautiful cut flowers, shrubbery and bedding plants of the Flowerland Nurseries. "The lowest prices in town," made possible by direct buying, will continue to be the policy of the market in its expansion program.—(AP.)

'Hiccup' Victim Better; Many Cures Suggested

Nonnie Rogers' five-day siege of "hiccups" was in a quiescent stage yesterday as interested Atlantans volunteered amateur hiccups remedies to the staff of Grady hospital.

Dr. J. M. Kellum, whose little known "artificial cold shower" treatment has been more or less successful in halting Nonnie's "hics," received a new one from an unidentified woman.

She suggested curdling the white of an egg in a teaspoon held over a candle, and administering it between "hics." She supplemented her remedy with boiled flaxseed meal administered by the teaspoonful thrice daily.

Meanwhile Dr. Kellum is keeping his fingers crossed. He sent Nonnie home Saturday night after halting the "hics" again.

Roberts, who lives at 397 Pulliam street, has been "hicing" off and on since last Tuesday. The only thing about it that worries him is the death of a great uncle some years ago from the same cause—a prolonged attack of hiccups.

dicted by the Italian press during the last few weeks.

"Signor Surich made an analogous communication and stated he was authorized to declare to the ambassador that the Italian military preparations in the Mediterranean basin were of a purely precautionary nature and had no aggressive aims."

No Italian Protest. A foreign office statement emphasized there has been no special protest from Rome regarding the British naval and military movements and that the British government acted upon its own initiative in ordering Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador to Italy, to deliver this message to the Italian government.

Sir Samuel Hoare, the British foreign secretary, was in London today much improved in health, and it was expected all ministers who have been on vacation will be back by tomorrow.

Private advisers were understood to have been received from Sir Eric regarding Italy's objections to the League of Nations peace plan. These, it was expected, would be used to guide the British cabinet in its deliberations.

Prime Minister Baldwin got in touch with all available ministers to arrange important conferences for tomorrow.

ARMED NEGROES TAKE $40 FROM MOTORMAN

Two negroes, one armed, held up a street car motorman shortly after midnight yesterday, beat him with a revolver butt and escaped with $40.

The motorman, O. B. Wiley, was treated at Grady hospital for scalp lacerations and loss of blood after he returned his car to the Butler street barn from the scene of the hold-up.

Police reported that burglars early yesterday removed a door panel from a restaurant at 422 Fraser street, S. W., and robbed the place of $75 in merchandise and a radio valued at $14.00.

What was announced as his last appearance previous to retirement.

Belmonte received the ears of the bulls he killed in recognition of his skillful work, and was carried from the arena on the shoulders of fans at the end of the performance.

Flakes of Tetter on Scalp Disappeared After Using Cuticura.

"The first sign of my little sister's tetter was an itching scalp and falling hair. There seemed to be layers of dead skin on her scalp which would come off in large flakes and leave raw places which would burn and sting. She would scratch and her hair came out gradually, and became very thin."

"Mother tried several remedies but the trouble seemed to get worse. Her scalp had been in this condition about six weeks when mother began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using two cakes of Soap and two boxes of Ointment there was no sign of tetter." ## TALMADGE 'CAVORTING' KEY BIBLE CLASS TOLD

Dr. Witherspoon Dodge Terms Governor's Attacks a "Most Ignoble Act."

"The effort of Governor Talmadge to split the democratic party is the most ignoble act of any man within the party today," said Dr. Witherspoon Dodge charged yesterday in the sermon delivered to the James L. Key Bible class meeting at the Paramount theater.

"Governor Talmadge needs very much to make use of this prayer suggested in the Sunday school lesson of today," said Dr. Dodge. "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of the Lord who giveth liberally to all men."

Charging that the Governor was "cavorting" around the country, Dr. Dodge said Talmadge was giving the impression to many people that he was "hardly more than a ranting ignoramus."

"His insistence on absolute state rights not only completely ignores the result of the Civil War and passes by the whole course of American history as expressed in the interstate commerce act, the federal trade commission act and the federal reserve bank act, but is as un-American as the common sense as would be the granting of permission to a city ward to dictate the political policy of its community."

And while calling himself one of the three or four surviving Jeffersonian democrats in the country, he has turned his back upon the very class of agricultural citizens with whom Jefferson sympathized most deeply," Dr. Dodge said.

"The effort of Governor Talmadge to split the democratic party is the most ignoble act of any man within the party today. If he were possibly successful in his insane scheme, what result could be excepting in the most ignoble act of any man within the party today."

Other laws expected to be challenged include the social security, Wagner labor disputes, rail pension, farm mortgage moratorium and utility holding company acts.

AAA COURT DECISION TO BE PUSHED AHEAD

cost housing projects are abandoned, the case probably will not be pressed. Solicitor-General Stanley Reed, who will argue the Hoosier Mills case, has attended many of the daily Justice Department meetings on legal aspects of the farm program.

Coincidentally, the department is continuing its drive to knock out injunctions restraining collection of processing taxes. This week, an attempt will be made to have 70 dismissed in Indianapolis, 50 in Kansas City, and others in Dallas and elsewhere.

Prospects for supreme court rulings on other New Deal legislation in the approaching term were indefinite.

Coal Act Challenged. The Guiffey coal act already has been challenged in the lower courts, but the government successfully opposed an application for a temporary injunction in the District of Columbia last week on the ground it was "premature," since the tax on which the coal control scheme is based will not be effective until November 1 at the earliest.

In Louisville courts, however, counsel for some coal operators insist they have devised a legal channel which will insure a ruling as early as possible. The Justice Department has sent lawyers there to defend the law.

Other laws expected to be challenged include the social security, Wagner labor disputes, rail pension, farm mortgage moratorium and utility holding company acts.

GEN. M'ARTHUR URGES MODEL ARMY FOR U. S.

ing blows is the first requisite of an army deliberately seeking to act aggressively, and manifestly our system would entail the delay of several months before large scale operations could be initiated. He states that for 13 years the curve representing the army's ability to perform its vital military missions has been trending continuously and dangerously downward and that the principal causes have been insufficient strength in the regular forces, growing obsolescence in important items of equipment, progressive consumption of reserve supplies and injudicious curtailment of training.

According to the report the last year witnessed the following improvements:

Regular Army Strengthened.
The enlisted strength of the regular army has been increased to 165,000.

Sudden Night Attacks of ASTHMA

Quickly relieved this simple way

When you are suddenly awakened with those choking gasping attacks so common to Asthma sufferers, just light a Dr. Blower Medical Cigarette (no tobacco). As the warm medical smoke is slowly inhaled the soothing vapors penetrate deep through the congested breathing passages, loosening phlegm and relieving congestion. For over 60 years thousands of sufferers have used this simple treatment to quickly relieve the spasms of Asthma and Hay Fever and for Common Colds and Congestion due to head colds. A trial will convince you. For sale at all drug stores.

enlisted men, which in all studies made by the War Department has been arrived at as being the absolute minimum consistent with national safety. In the interests of immediate economy the entire increase is to be initially absorbed in the lowest enlisted grade, that is, our untrained privates at $21 per month. General MacArthur points out that this arrangement prevents the reconstitution of many inactive units which are badly needed in order to balance our larger combat organizations and prevents the appointment of the necessary percentage of specialists and non-commissioned officers to insure efficiency.

The chief of staff points out that during the past year the promotion system of the regular army has been revised relieving to some extent the stagnated promotion faced by officers of the World War contingent and those below. The new legislation directs promotion to first lieutenants at the end of three years of commissioned service and to captain at the end of ten. It makes moderate increases in the number of colonels, lieutenant colonels and majors.

More Cadets Authorized.
Another piece of important legislation enacted by the last congress was the increase in the authorized number of cadets at West Point from 1,374 to 1,960. This will insure that over a period of years, not less than 50 per cent of the commissioned officers of the army will be graduates of West Point. An added motive for the increase in the size of West Point is the existing need for a moderate expansion in the professional officer corps. Efficient performance of regular army missions requires a minimum number of approximately 14,000 officers in active service, or about 2,000 more than we now have.

The national guard, except for the regular army, is the only component organized into relatively complete tactical units. From a national viewpoint the mission of the national guard is the early and effective reinforcement of the regular army in an emergency. During the period of its development since 1920, national guard units in the professional officer corps to a strength of approximately 190,000. After much study of the problem the War Department concluded that its effective training in

Calif. Youth Wears Out Respirator In Long Battle Against Paralysis

Another Boy, in Spokane, Wash., Kept Alive Nearly Year
Already With Mechanical Lung; Both Patients
Courageous in Life Fights.

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Mechanical lungs wheezed on monotonously today, staving off death from infantile paralysis for one youth who doctors thought would die momentarily more than 18 months ago and keeping life in another boy for nearly a year.

Raymond Rambo, 18, spent his 564th day as a recent hospital patient believe—in a respirator at the Alameda County hospital here.

The other youth, 16-year-old Fred Bedach, was reported gaining at Spokane, Wash., in his mechanically-aided fight for breath, which started last September 24.

Both youths' condition was described as "just the same" by the doctors, one of whom said they had expected him to die within a week after being stricken.

Both youths, who were placed in the respirators after infantile paralysis had caused their lungs to collapse, have displayed unflinching courage in their battles for life.

Voluntary basis. Six hundred and eighty regular officers, as well as a considerable number of enlisted men are detailed to instructional work in these institutions.

The results obtained fully justify the cost of this movement, and the War Department has been most anxious to accomplish some expansion of the reserve officers' training corps.

gade. Two regiments of tanks (infantry). Seven separate armored car troops for use with three regular and four national guard divisions in cavalry. Thirteen mechanized platoons (scout cars) for regular regiments of cavalry. Seven companies of tanks for use with regular infantry divisions.

"MotORIZATION: The motorization program of the War Department with respect to both the regular army and national guard has been worked out in detail. It involves every arm and service, each according to its specific needs, and may be summarized by saying that every instance where motors have demonstrated an ability to meet normal transportation requirements, their substitution for animals is adopted. About 18,000 vehicles of various types are still required.

"Rifles: One of the new semiautomatic weapons for every rifleman in the regular army. This to be immediately followed by a similar five-year program for the national guard.

"Artillery: Modification of all field guns pertaining to active units of the regular army and national guard, both for high-speed towing and for increasing flexibility of fire. Experimentation and development programs to continue in the effort to simplify this type of material.

"Antiaircraft Artillery: Complete equipment for all active regiments of regular army and national guard. To be followed by a similar program to equip all inactive regiments of regular army.

"Chemical Warfare Service: Sustained program for continuation of experimentation. Procurement in five years of necessary defensive and protective equipment for regular army and national guard at war strength.

"Ammunition Reserve: Gradual accumulation in essential calibers to meet the needs of the regular army and national guard at full peace strength for 30 days in active operation.

"Miscellaneous Equipment: Infantry mortars, various classifications of machine guns, searchlights, signal equipment and other essential items in needed amounts for regular army and national guard at full peace strength."

Model Security Forces.
In his conclusion General MacArthur states that:

"The regular army will, within five years, become the model of professional and technical ability that it must be as the heart and core of the security forces. It will be in sufficient strength to discharge its important peace-time duties and, with its small reserve of instantly available and seasoned soldiers, will be ready at a moment's notice to move against any threatened attack. Its air contingent will be strong, efficient and capable of dealing with the ground forces to deliver decisive blows against an enemy or to perform any less closely co-ordinated types of mission that may be required by circumstances.

"The national guard will continue its steady progress in efficiency and will be sufficiently strong and ready to assure support of the professional element in a major crisis.

"The officers' reserve corps will be trained individually and organizationally to furnish a valuable and indispensable reinforcement to our commissioned leadership.

"The ability of the reserve officers' training corps and the citizens' military training camps to fulfill their functions as sources of trained personnel will be enhanced.

"Finally there will be assurance that minimum required quantities of modern weapons, including airplanes, tanks, rifles, cannon and all other articles and items essential to an army, will either be available when needed or will be produced with the least possible delay."

PASTOR IS HONORED
Tenth Anniversary.

Members of the congregation and civic leaders yesterday paid tribute to Dr. C. R. Stauffer, on the anniversary of his ten years' service as pastor of First Christian church.

J. P. Downing, a member of the congregation for 44 years, represented them at the anniversary services. He paid tribute to Dr. Stauffer and to Mrs. Stauffer in a talk which he concluded by saying:

"First Christian church has never had a minister more consecrated or who has led the church in a more aggressive program of activity."

The service was presided over by Thomas A. Mory, who read a number of congratulatory messages from other Atlanta pastors, civic and business leaders.

W. E. Mitchell, vice president of the Georgia Power Company, expressed the appreciation of Atlanta business leaders in a talk to the congregation.

ROOSEVELT PRAISES
DIXIE CREW COURAGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared today the "heroic service" of officers and crew of the liner Dixie, which grounded on a Florida reef during the September 2 hurricane, had brought "great credit to our American merchant marine."

His commendation was expressed in a letter to I. M. Nobel, New York, chairman of a committee of passengers of the wrecked Morgan liner.

Nobel had requested the President to give "official recognition and appropriate reward" to the work of Captain E. W. Sundstrom and his crew, and to aid in their re-employment following the disaster.

Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. Continues Substantial Gains

GEORGIA AGENCY ALSO KEEPS PACE

Optimistic Outlook Is Reflected in Announced Plans for Expansion.

At the close of August, the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company showed an increase in volume of business of approximately 15.39 per cent over the same period in 1935. This result is attributed largely to the continuous service the company has extended and maintained for over 78 years, not only to its policyholders, but to the public in general, which finds its policy contracts and rates most attractive.

The increased regard the public has shown to life insurance as the result of its record during the hectic period of the past few years, and the improvement of general business conditions, also have been contributing factors.

The local general agency (under the direction of Luther E. Allen) which covers the agency organization, is also showing a substantial increase covering the same period as mentioned above. Increased personnel has been added to the agency organization, and plans for further expansion are now under way. A number of new agents recently have been added to the sales organization, and further additions are anticipated.

With its new and attractive sales equipment, together with the support of a national advertising campaign and a unique system of prospecting which gets results, the Northwestern agent is finding continual increases in the volume of his efforts.

Arranging financial programs through life insurance, both for the protection of dependents and to cover future personal financial security is not only the well-recognized and safe plan of today, but is the ideal plan for a great number of individuals.

The government again has endorsed the general principles of life insurance in the social security act recently passed. Individuals desiring their own independence and those not coming under the act, as well as those who do, desire to provide for their own financial security both for themselves and their families through life insurance.

In addition, men and women of means are finding through annuity contracts the ideal method of providing themselves with larger incomes, with the element of speculation entirely removed.

The Northwestern Mutual has been in continuous operation in Georgia for more than 65 years, and its business within the borders of the state now aggregates more than $37,000,000.

Crichton College Stresses Value of Business Training

Miss E. Katherine Reid, president of Crichton's Business College, shown here seated at her desk, urges upon young men and women the value of business office training in preparation for their future. High school or college students or graduates alike, she points out, need this training to better fit them to put their academic education into practical use.

An enviable pinnacle attained—its fiftieth anniversary—Crichton's Business College, at 68 1-2 Plaza Way, S. W., this fall looks upward and ahead, content in the awareness of success in spite of years of stress and depression.

"While many similar institutions have stood still or failed the last five years of economic strain," declares Miss E. Katherine Reid, its president, "Crichton's Business College has forged ahead, doubled its faculty and vastly increased its annual enrollment. This fall finds us with a registration never before achieved."

And this year, as never before, Miss Reid points out, college graduates are growing more cognizant of the need for business office training. They are beginning to realize the importance of such training to fit them to put their college training into practical use.

Crichton's Business College, however, is by no means an institution for college graduates alone. It draws its students from every class—from among young men and women who have begun but found themselves unable to finish high school work, from those who have graduated from high school but are aware of the impending necessity for earning their own livelihood, and from those who en-

PROSPEROUS FALL IS SEEN BY CROCY

Investment Securities Dealer Urges All To Climb on Bandwagon.

By A. J. CROCY,
Rossignol & Crocy, Inc.

The voting of bonds by Atlanta is but another evidence of returning confidence in the future. The period of watchful waiting to see what will happen has passed, and pent-up energies are now beginning to be loosened. The south is definitely forging ahead, and in my opinion is laying the groundwork for an unprecedented period of prosperity. Our courage has been tried, but it has not been found wanting. Rather, it has been fired with a new intensity which will carry us forward to new heights.

We have a definite task to perform, and it is not the nature of the American public to sit idly by and let the other fellow do it. The time has come for united action to lend momentum to the force that already has started. Only by co-operation and concentrated efforts can we emerge from the fight victorious.

The crack of the starting pistol has been heard, and we are off on a new race toward the familiar goal of prosperity. The triumvirate of commodity prices, stock prices and business volume has been set on an upward course. Today is a time for boundless enthusiasm, for America faces a future more brilliant, perhaps, than any that has ever gone before. The fires of the war have not only been used to build, but to stimulate greater action, and with renewed courage have been stimulated to greater action.

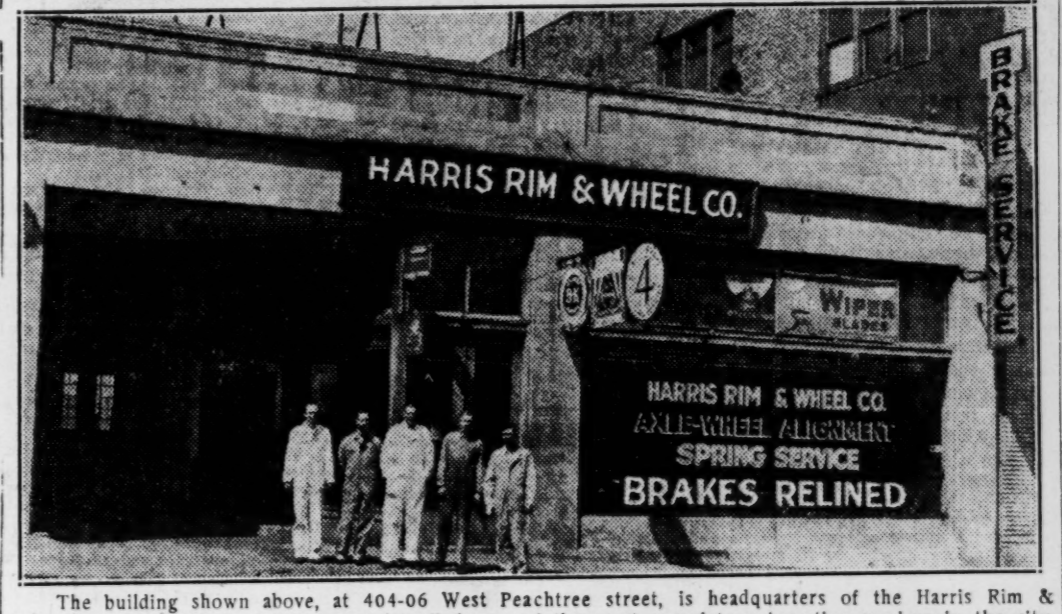

Business indices throughout the country portray a greater fall business than that of last year. Real jobs are coming into evidence, and recovery is taking on more than a temporary mantle; it is showing definite signs of permanence. The bandwagon is being pushed, and we want to be in at the finish it is time for us all to jump aboard.

It takes a lot of grit to go through a depression such as the one we have had and still be able to smile. But smiling we are, because we have faith in our country and in its ability to come through any crisis.

Advancement. Thus, the bright pupil is not held back by the one who is slower to learn, nor is the dull one pushed along too rapidly.

Miss Reid invites parents or prospective students to visit the college and to investigate the courses offered.

Harris Rim & Wheel Co. Carburetor Expert Stresses Importance of Fall Readjustment

The building shown above, at 404-06 West Peachtree street, is headquarters of the Harris Rim & Wheel Company, where Atlanta motorists find one of the most complete automotive services in the city. It maintains splendidly equipped carburetion and ignition, wheel and rim, brake and spring, and axle departments, where quality workmanship is the rule.

The turn of the seasons—those uncertain days when the south swelters in the day and shivers at night—brings with it the vital necessity for automotive readjustments, especially in carburetion, according to "Red" Hoyt, manager of the carburetion and ignition department of the Harris Rim & Wheel Company, 404-06 West Peachtree street.

It is generally agreed, says Mr. Hoyt, that incorrectly adjusted carburetors are the cause of a great deal of the inefficient operation of automobiles so prevalent in the fall and early winter. Yet, he adds, few motorists realize the cause of this deficiency or bother to have it corrected.

"Perhaps, when chilly weather comes, the mixture that has been used during the hot summer months is either too rich or too lean," says Mr. Hoyt. "The arrival of autumn demands that carburetion be checked and adjusted to the changing atmospheric conditions."

The Harris Rim & Wheel Company's completely equipped carburetion and ignition department is prepared to render every service necessary in connection with these all-important automotive phases—checking, adjustment and repair. Its equipment, of the most modern, scientifically developed type, includes the Stromberg carburetor tester, the Sun Motor tester, the Englehart gas analyzer, the Zenith gas mileage tester and other machinery and apparatus especially designed to make a high class of work.

In addition to these services, the company offers a complete spring and axle service.

Every department is under the supervision of a man of long experience in his particular type of work, thus assuring motorists of fine workmanship.

The Harris Rim & Wheel Company maintains also one of the most completely equipped brake departments in the city, where the latest and most approved electrical brake testing machinery will be found. Motorists are invited to bring their cars here and avail themselves of the company's free brake testing service. A complete stock of brake linings, brake drums, power brakes makes possible speedy replacement.

GA. AUTO PARTS CO. ADD TWO TRUCKS

Reconditioned Stocks Make Splendid Values Available to Motorists.

Keeping step with a steadily expanding business, the Georgia Auto Parts Company, at 1036 Bankhead avenue, has purchased and added to its equipment two more service trucks, thus enabling this wide-awake concern to render a speedier and more efficient service to its customers.

The Georgia Auto Parts Company carries in its stocks virtually every part or accessory for any late model passenger automobile or truck, every item thoroughly reconditioned and ready for installation. The company serves as a clearing house for insurance companies' salvage throughout Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee and the Carolinas, and thus is in position to provide for its patrons the required part or parts for almost any car.

In addition, motorists may find at the Georgia Auto Parts Company a full stock of complete Ford and Chevrolet motor assemblies, rebuilt and in absolutely first-class condition. It specializes in these two makes, and keeps a number of late model Fords and Chevrolets on hand at all times for salvage purposes.

The Georgia Auto Parts Company also is headquarters for reconditioned tires and for radiators for all makes of cars, both new and reconditioned. It also is prepared to supply excellent values in completely and efficiently reconditioned generators and starters.

Louis E. Austin, owner of the Georgia Auto Parts Company, stresses the company's wrecker and body service—a fact clearly reflected in the recent addition of two more service trucks. Prompt free delivery is given on all orders of $50 or more.

Atlanta motorists are invited to visit the Georgia Auto Parts Company headquarters at any time and to investigate the remarkable values to be found there. High standards of workmanship are maintained, and patrons of the company are assured of the best values to be obtained.

12 LOW-COST PROJECTS ARE APPROVED BY FHA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Stewart McDonald, administrator, said today 142 low-cost housing projects involving an estimated outlay of $305,000,000 have been submitted to the Federal Housing Administration.

Of the number 12 were reported approved and 76 rejected, while $175,000,000 worth remained under examination.

"Many proposed low-cost housing projects break down under the Federal Housing Administration risk-rating," McDonald said, "and only those that are economically sound obtain approval."

Abstemiously, facetiously and arsenically are the three words in the English language that contain all the vowels in their proper order.

PWA HEADS STRUGGLE TO PLACE IDLE ON JOBS

64,000 Jobs Daily Needed To Reach 3,500,000 Quota by November.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The New Deal effort to transfer 3,500,000 needy from relief rolls to pay rolls by November 1, today faced the Herculean task of supplying a daily average of 64,004 jobs for 40 days.

For its accomplishment, officials counted heavily on the outcome of conferences this week with President Roosevelt. A renewed effort to inject vitality into a works machine apparently stalled despite repeated revisions was scheduled upon his return from Hyde Park, N. Y., tomorrow.

Mr. Roosevelt planned to spend most of the week at the White House for the purpose of jacking up the sagging job campaign.

2,563,782 Jobs To Go.

To achieve the November goal he set for ending direct relief, 2,563,782 persons must be given work in addition to the 936,218 already on Harry L. Hopkins' job list. The huge daily average required would compare with a past average of 5,572 in the four times 40 days which have expired since the $4,880,000,000 work relief appropriation became law.

One phase of the works program was almost ready to start. State public works administrators, after speeding into the capital by airplane, today were putting into final shape public works projects that will consume $200,000,000 of the remaining works funds.

Officials said the list of new projects would be ready for the President on his arrival. Announcement of the list was not expected for a week or ten days, however, since approval of the budget director and comptroller general as well as the President is required.

The Works Progress Administration still contended it could meet the November 1 deadline. But some critics said the result would be nothing more than exhumation of the old civil works program and its "leaf raking" projects.

The latest indication of this trend was seen in Harry L. Hopkins' notice to state work relief administrators that they must choose the projects to be pressed according to the employment need in each locality. The same order told the administrators to choose projects on which "work can be started and stopped as the labor supply fluctuates."

N. Y. WPA, Under Gen. Johnson, Has Bigger Pay Roll Than Ford

More Than 150,000 Persons Placed on Jobs by Former Fiery NRA Chieftain, Working in Co-operation With Mayor LaGuardia.

(Copyright, 1935, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—There is a running full blast right beneath the unassuming noses of this city's 6,000,000, one of the most remarkable machines ever assembled—a production line that churns out 5,000 jobs (more or less) every 24 hours.

It is a machine of paradox. Many of its parts are wasteful, inefficient, pyramided. Some are amusing, almost ridiculous.

And yet, while President Roosevelt's gigantic works program stumbles to a slow start in most of 48 states, more than 150,000 men and women have been placed on Uncle Sam's pay roll here since the appointment of General Hugh S. Johnson, the sulphuric former administrator of NRA, as work progress administrator for New York city. The total now stands at 158,546.

Greater Than Ford Pay Roll.

The figure compares favorably with drawing pay checks from Mr. Roosevelt's famous four-billion-dollar fund in all the rest of the country. It is more than the pay roll of the Ford Motor Company or any other private corporation in the world or the United States army's normal strength. And, within the next three weeks, it will bound upward by another 100,000.

Whether you believe in the Roosevelt-Hopkins theory of work-relief, as General Johnson doesn't, or that a straight dole is cheaper and no less destructive of morale, as General Johnson does, there is no doubt that the President picked the right man to run the "proving ground" of his program. Whatever his personal opinions, General Johnson has subordinated them to "doing a job." When he steps out October 15 he and Mayor LaGuardia will have done it.

Improve City Parks.

For men and women who for years have been drawing doles for doing nothing are now working—improving the city's parks, paving its streets, eliminating the "mosquito menace" by draining large tracts of swamp land in the Bronx and Queens, building another magnificent waterfront driveway—this one will skirt the East river in dingy lower Manhattan—clearing slums, nursing sick children, teaching home economics, doing hundreds of other things.

These are all WPA "projects" and some of the projects proposed early in the game rocked the city with laughter. There was one to investigate the sex life of fish; another to remove the odor from the fish market. One engineering white-collar project was dubbed "vertical and horizontal survey" and, to this date, no definition of it can be found at

FRENCH NATIONALISTS CLASH WITH RED GROUP

Thousands of Veterans Gather To Celebrate Victory of the Marne.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A test mobilization disturbed by a clash with communists today massed thousands of Croix de Feu nationalists in forests and fields throughout France under the command of Colonel Francois De La Rocque, the man who would be dictator.

Between midnight and dawn roads were jammed with automobiles as the veterans assembled—ostensibly to commemorate the victory of the Marne. The mobilization—designed to test how fast the throngs could be assembled—was kept as secret as possible to avoid "attacks by unpatriotic elements."

Communists, informed in advance by their leaders, ambushed one "cross of fire" caravan outside Caen by striding the roadway with broken bottles.

Four Croix de Feu men were beaten severely and 17 hurt slightly. De La Rocque announced later, adding the hundred Croix de Feu members refrained from fighting back.

"The popular front (socialists and communists) wants us to fight their Apaches, but we must not fall into a trap," the colonel told his followers at the four meetings he addressed nearby.

"Our time will come. Until then we must meet scattered attacks with calm criticism and with silence."

The veterans' meeting places near Paris and at Lille, Marseille, Angoulême, Bordeaux, Tarbes, Saint-Etienne, Nancy and Clermont-Ferrand, were revealed to be La Rocque's followers only five hours in advance.

Mobilization also was extended to the colonies, with a meeting at Algiers.

The meeting places were disclosed at 1 a. m. Almost immediately motor cars streamed along the roads in those regions. Guides were stationed along the highways to direct lost members and to keep them from revealing their destination by asking outsiders.

Jews Donate Million For German Victims

JERUSALEM, Sept. 22.—(Palestine Agency)—The total amount contributed by Jews throughout the world, as of August 31, to aid the settlement of German Jews in Palestine was $1,187,500, according to a report covering the period since September, 1933, issued today by Dr. Georg Landauer, secretary of the Central Bureau for the Settlement of German Jews in Palestine.

Family Type Plane a Step Nearer; Auto Engine for Aircraft Is Tested

Six-Cylinder Motor Run 300 Hours in Open Weather in Bureau of Air Commerce Experimentation in Quest of Low-Cost Power Source.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The family-type airplane approached a step nearer realization today with a report to the Bureau of Air Commerce of satisfactory tests of an automobile engine for aircraft.

Because of its lower cost the bureau has been interested in adapting automobile engines to the small, medium-priced planes with which it is now experimenting. In order to get exact data on the practicability of the project, an aeronautics school was asked to make exhaustive tests.

An ordinary six-cylinder engine developing 88 horsepower at 3,500 revolutions a minute was mounted on a block just as it arrived from the factory. It was hooked to an airplane propeller with six fabric belts and run for 300 hours in the open under varying weather conditions and at various speeds.

According to the report on this test, the engine functioned perfectly except for one minor break in a timing gear and the belt drive gave only a three per cent slippage. Several kinds of gasoline were tried, ordinary automobile gasoline being used after the first 144 hours. The report said it proved to be equal in performance to two grades of aviation gasoline and gave no trouble whatsoever.

The primary advantage of the automobile engine was termed its economy in upkeep and operation. The most important disadvantage is the heavy weight per horsepower generated, about five to five one-half pounds compared with about two pounds per horsepower for the air-cooled aviation engine.

"Some sacrifice in performance will have to be made, but it is felt that price is a decided factor in increasing the number of privately owned aircraft," the report declared. "A low-priced airplane requires a low-priced engine."

but was vetoed by President Roosevelt.

Cleveland, Denver, Los Angeles and Atlantic City are seeking next year's convention.

The Legion's resolutions assignment committee, which met Friday, has already divided among appropriate committees the 136 resolutions submitted by the various departments. Almost half of them deal with rehabilitation of war veterans and their dependents. The committee reports will be received Wednesday and Thursday.

Tomorrow's opening session will begin at 9:30 o'clock (central standard time) with Commander Belgrano presiding.

Acknowledged candidates in the field are Viles H. Whaley, Wisconsin; Earl V. Cliff, Minnesota; Harry W. Colmery, Kansas; Maurice J. Devine, New Hampshire; Daniel J. Doherty, Massachusetts; J. Ray Murphy, Iowa; Quimby Melton, Georgia; William S. Pritchard, Alabama, and Frank D. Rash, Kentucky.

Convention demand for payment of the bonus is a certainty, but there may be some difficulty over the collateral question, "how shall it be financed?" It is likely that this year, as last, that the Legion will avoid the issue.

Commander Belgrano, in his annual report, opposed tying up bonus payment with currency inflation and asserted the bonus, if considered on its own merits, would have "a fair chance" of passage.

The author of the Patman bill, Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, a Legionnaire, will be on hand to seek support of his measure which provides for payment of the bonus through issuance of new currency. It passed congress at the last session.

ROOSEVELT OKAYS N. Y. WORLD'S FAIR

Exposition in 1939-40 Planned to Observe Inauguration of Washington.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(UP)—President Roosevelt tentatively has approved a plan for a great world's fair to be held in New York during 1939-40 to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the establishment of the government of the United States and the inauguration of President George Washington, it was announced tonight.

Preliminary planning for the fair, designed to excel the 1933-34 Century of Progress exposition in Chicago and to "stimulate industrial recovery not only in New York but throughout the nation," has been under way since May.

The plan still must be approved by the New York city government and voters. Mayor LaGuardia and Governor Lehman, however, are in favor of the plan.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON.
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

SAFETY FIRST.

When I was learning to drive a car my teacher taught me all the finer points but forgot to show me how to use the brakes. That is why I am one of the fastest and worst drivers in America. In bridge, also, not to know how to use the brakes is a fatal mistake. Partner flashes the red light (especially in a loud, emphatic tone of voice—Pipass) stamps a player as a member of the nation's largest fraternity, the Order of Errant Knights of Losing Bridge.

Self-preservation is the first law of bridge as of life. Back of every bid and every play I find the safety principle. "Am I safe and can I survive the inevitable rocks of distribution or partner's stupidity?" is the first and most important question to ask one's self about any bid or play. Long and painful experience has taught me a number of simple rules and safety devices to avoid unjustified penalties. For instance, never stick out your head with a risky bid without an out. I am not saying "do not risk," for people who never take reasonable chances have equally no hope of winning, but you must have an out. A safe out, some other bid or support for partner's suit, or a conviction that the opponents, through sheer ignorance, will not double you.

But the best safety device I know is what I call the rule of two and three. It means that if your partner has passed or has not yet bid, you should not expect or gamble on more than two winners in which the vulnerable and three winners if not vulnerable. Thus, if your own hand contains seven winners, you can go only as high as three spades vulnerable, but you can gamble on four spades if not vulnerable. The reason for the rule of two and three is that your maximum justifiable loss, even to save a game, is 500 points.

There is much more to it than that, but if you stick to this rule you will save, in the course of your lifetime, even more than 1,500,000 points. I can guarantee it, for every time I break the rule I lose 500 points.

The Safety Play.

Before playing the trump suit or any suit, for that matter, visualize the possible ways in which the opponents' cards in that suit may be divided between their two hands. Then play as though you were dividing the worst possible division, unless, to make your contract, you must take a chance on finding the best.

THE BIDDING (East-West vulnerable)

SOUTH WEST NORTH EAST
1 Sp Pass 2 Hc Pass
2 Pass 2 Sp Pass
4 Hc (Final bid)

West opened the king of diamonds and, fearing that South might discard one or more, losing diamonds on dummy's hearts, he continued with the ace. Then he led a low diamond to South's queen. South, who could discard his clubs on the heart suit, led to limit the loss of tricks in the trump suit to one trick. South led low spade. West played the six, and South put up the king. The play defeated him. If he had thought out his problem, he would have discarded one of spades, for if West had had all the outstanding trumps it would win and if East were able to take it, then there would be only two spades left, which would be taken care of later by the ace and king.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question—You hold Spades K-Q-J-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1. Clubs K-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1. What do you bid, not vulnerable?

Answer—Four spades. With a long and powerful suit, but with no outside strength, your best bet is to bid four spades. But with the same suit, if you have another ace or a K-Q, the proper bid would be one spade.

MAKE A DETACHABLE PEPLUM IF YOU'D HAVE TWO SMART FALL FRONTS IN ONE.

A wardrobe with elasticity, that's what we all want, isn't it? Two frocks in one certainly sounds like "more for your money"—and it is! This smart fall and winter frock assumes an entirely different appearance simply by doffing its flaring peplum. Even your best friend won't suspect it's the same frock! There's a persistent influence in the graceful lines of the frock, with its shirring and long or short sleeves. How cleverly the yoke turns back into revers at the throat; how decorative the metal buttons! Its flowing lines will be accentuated by a soft sheer, silk or cady.

An Eye Lotion That's Soothing For Tired Pedal Extremities

By MIGNON.

You are going to be surprised when I tell you the latest discovery. An eye lotion that I have always talked about as being one of the best on the market today, it is, in fact, a superlative to put on tired feet at the end of a hard day. After a bath, pour a little in one palm and rub it into the feet gently.

The menthol in this lotion is cooling and while it may seem strange, it gives the same sparkle to your feet that it gives to the eyes. I find that it is not any more expensive than other foot lotions or eye lotions, either, and I would like to have you try a bottle and see how right I am about it. It is always pleasant to discover something that people are going to feel is well worth their money.

You shoes often make the feet tender and walking any distance can take the smile out of the most beautiful face if your pedal extremities get over weary. If you are trying to walk off pounds, go ahead, but be sure that you have a bottle of this lotion waiting for you when you get home.

The manufacturer is certainly going to be surprised when she finds her precious eye lotion going to the "dogs," but if she tries it herself I know she is going to love it.

For the discovery, apply it just before you go to sleep and while it may not relax the muscles of your feet it feels as if it did.

Fracas Over 5c Credit Causes Death of Negro

An argument police said started over whether or not credit would be extended for a "hot dog" resulted last night in the death of a negro and the jailing of another, the proprietor of a restaurant.

George Fisher, 28, of 808 Madison and Turner avenue, S. W., police reported, grew incensed when Clarence Black, proprietor of a restaurant at 833 West Hunter street, refused to credit him for the "hot dog."

When Fisher drew a knife, they reported, Black opened fire on him, killing him almost instantly. Clark was placed under arrest.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. The writer, Caroline Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

William Watson, the English poet, who died a little while ago, added to his list of trials and tribulations of poverty, largely because he had a genius for saying unpleasant things to people and saying them up to the hilt. Even when his language flowed rhythmically and his rhymes were in apple pie order his poems were frequently pure poison. Once he set the literary and political world agog with an attack on Lady Asquith, referring to her as "The woman with the serpent's tongue." We can't recall how the squabble thus started, but the high-spirited Lady Asquith was plenty sore with the poet and that his face was plenty red when she and her allies administered to him.

The current papers carry an item about Mrs. Watson who registers as a candidate for work as housekeeper or secretary. Pluckily she comments: "I don't care what work I do, I really must do something. There is no disgrace in work and I don't want charity. My daughters are already in such employment."

If the opulent Lady Asquith were to come to the aid of the poverty-stricken Mrs. Watson this would make a dramatic denouement to a story that once stirred the reading public. The time has stilled the lady's high-bouncing spirit and mellowed her mind, such magnanimity is hardly conceivable.

Talented and untalented, poet and peasant live by the same natural law in this world and it reads: "We always get back what we put out." A man has the ear of the reading public it must be a terrible temptation to him to let fly upon pen-darts at foes. Yet every time he wounds, he opens a wound in his own heart. He exposes his Achilles heel. His sharp wit and well-timed thrusts may give him publicity, but this is a far point from popularity. He is pretty dependent upon friends and we neither make them nor keep them by saying unpleasant things to them.

When lovely woman stoops to folly and poisons the minds of her lovely friends with her spleen and voice their personal prejudices, "What art can wash their guilt away?" Every offense is a boomerang and if it doesn't return to hit them before they hit their loved ones, their wives and children.

Another distinguished writer has recently died—a philosopher, not a poet. He too had a genius—a genius for making friends, not foes. He polished his fun at the great and the near-great, yet he did it in such good humor that he never gave offense nor left a sting. His wisdom and his wit were in a large fortune, but principally by a public that paid Will Rogers fabulous sums to laugh at them and with them; and America plans memorials to honor the homely philosopher who never took a dirty dig at anybody.

Cubs Complete Home Stand With Eighteenth Straight Victory

LARRY FRENCH BESTS BLANTON; CARDS WIN TWO

Hard-Hitting Pirates Are Blanked, 2-0; Play Cards Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(UP)—The triumph march of the Chicago Cubs continued unbroken today as they scored their eighteenth consecutive victory by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2 to 0.

The triumph assured the Cubs at least a two-game lead when they began their five-game series to decide the pennant with St. Louis Wednesday.

The Cardinals won a double-header from Cincinnati today, 4-3 and 3-2, to cut the Cubs' lead to three games. The Cubs are idle tomorrow and Tuesday while the Cards play two games with Pittsburgh. Two victories would enable the Cubs to draw to within two games of the top by Wednesday.

The Cub-Pirate game was a tight pitching battle between Larry French, of Chicago, and Cy Blanton, of Pittsburgh. The Cubs won in first and eighth innings.

The Cardinals won the opening game handily, Hollman and Ryba, a new pitcher, holding the Reds to six hits while the Cards were blasting three pitchers for 15. Seven Cincinnati errors aided the St. Louis Cards. Ryba, recently acquired from Columbus, yielded only two hits during the last seven innings.

Ryba batted in three runs on two hits and French and Durocher slammed home two tallies each.

Dizzy Dean scored his 28th victory in holding the Reds to three hits in the nightcap. Al Hollman held the Cards to five. Each team got a run in the first and the Cards won with a two-run rally in the eighth.

J. Collins' double in the eighth drove home Rothrock and Medwick, both of whom had walked, with the winning runs.

The New York Giants defeated Brooklyn, 5-2, as Clyde Clemens won his 15th game. He yielded only five hits, three of them coupled with a wild pitch accounting for Brooklyn's two runs in the first.

The Giants tied the count in the third and won with two runs in the seventh and one in the eighth. Bartlett homered in the seventh and Ott's single, Leiber's pass and Jackson's double accounted for the other runs. Philadelphia defeated Boston, 7-5 and 4-3. The Phils won the opener with two in the ninth when Johnny Moore hit his 18th homer of the year with a man aboard. Trailing, 3-2, going into the seventh, the Phils won the nightcap when Watkins hit a homer with a man on the paths. The double defeat sent the total Braves' losses to 110, breaking the modern National league record for setbacks in a season set by the Phillies of 1925 at 108.

The Detroit Tigers, who clinched the American league pennant yesterday, were whipped, 1 to 0, by the St. Louis Browns. It was a tight pitcher's battle with Earl Caldwell, Brown rookie, yielding three hits and Schoolboy Rowe four.

ROWE FANS 10. Rowe fanned 10 men but contributed to his own downfall in the sixth. Carey started the inning with a single and went to second on Caldwell's sacrifice. He took third as Larry grounded out. Burns bounced a high drive to Rowe who deflected it and Carey scored the winning run.

Caldwell held the Tigers hitless for six innings. Goslin and Rogell got singles in the seventh and Greenberg hit a ninth-inning double—the only extra base hit of the game.

Cleveland split with Chicago, winning the opener, 6-3, and losing the nightcap, 9-2. The Indians won the first with a three-run attack in the seventh inning. Calitz's double with two on sent in two runs and Hughes' single drove him home. Monte Stratton, rookie right-hander, set the Indians down with eight hits in the nightcap. The Sox battered four Indians pitchers for 13 hits.

YANKS WIN TWO. The New York Yankees defeated Boston, 6-4 and 9-0, before a sell-out crowd. The Yanks put the first game on ice with three runs in the first and never relinquished the lead. A run in the fifth, which proved to be the winning margin, was produced by Selkirk's triple and Richardson's single. Vito Tamula relieved Ruffing in the fifth when, with the bases loaded and three runs in, he checked a Red Sox rally and got credit for the victory.

Walter Brown struck out eight and set the Sox down with four hits in winning the nightcap, which was called at the end of the eighth because of the Sunday baseball law. The Yanks pummeled Ostermuller, Walberg and Bowers for 16 hits. Ben Chapman drove in four runs with two doubles and a single.

The Washington Senators whipped Philadelphia, 10-2 and 11-1. Buck Newsom, Senator pitcher, yielded nine hits in the opener. He also made three hits, batted in three runs and stole a base. His double in the first inning with the bases loaded brought in three runs.

Talley, Zachry Are Winners At Skeet

By C. L. Davis.

Shooting with deadly accuracy, O. L. Talley shattered 50 straight skeet targets in the September Ham Shoot at the West End Gun Club Sunday, to carry off the prize in division 1. After finishing his first 25 straight and reaching station 7 on his doubles with an unbroken run of 49 straight he missed the easy "floating" income and his 50 straight.

Assuming the appearance of a hungry bear, rather than a skeet shooter and a growl in place of the conventional "pull," Talley ran his next 25 straight to post a 50x50 for high over all and the ham. Walter Cox, the latest addition to the skeet shooting fraternity, scored a 49x50 to place as runner-up. Ralph Zachry carried off the "porker" in the division 2 shoot with 48x50, while Colonel W. S. Howard, with 46x50, placed as runner-up.

In the dove-shoot, P. M. Gilbert led the field with 44x50, which is a very creditable score in this sport, and was also awarded a ham. Schley Howard Jr. placed second with 39, while E. B. Pyron, Buddy Jones and H. L. White finished with high scores at dove-shoot.

ROWE EFFICIENT. Stacy Rowe, the efficient young trainer, who will play such an important part in conditioning the Oglethorpe football squad this season, tried skeet yesterday for the first time in order to condition himself for the fall quail season, and proceeded to shoot the best beginners' score of the day with 35x50, which is above the average. Other new shooters were John Edwards, H. E. McFaris, H. C. Crangle, J. T. Myers, Preston Mason Jr., P. B. Ford, L. Blakey, G. N. Hunter, W. F. Buchanan and D. C. McChlain. This large beginners' squad speaks well for the value of skeet.

Eddie Ricks Under To Win by Yank

MAXIE'S CHIN IS UNMOVABLE, SAYS EXPERT

Ex-Champion Is Given Ten Rounds To Stop 'Bomber.'

By Edward J. Neil.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The old story of the immovable object—Max Baer's chin—and the irresistible force—Joe Louis' crackling fists—will be retold in the Yankee stadium Tuesday night before better than a $1,000,000 worth of eager spectators. I believe the immovable object will prevail, that Max Baer will win by a knockout along the middle of the 15-round war.

Most of the logic in the duel of the chocolate soldier, one of the greatest natural punches the ring has developed, and Baer, the iron man with a tremendous kick of his own, points to the giant former champion from California.

Brick Chest.

The toughest hitters in the heavyweight division, Max Schmeling, Ernie Schacht, Johnny Rison, and the like, battered at Baer's chin without apparent effect. Louis, only 21 years old, with little more than 14 months' professional experience behind him, hits as hard, if not harder, than any of these. But to offset this, the big curlyhead, the most erratic of modern warriors, has been prepared for this extra castigation as few heavyweights ever have been before, certainly as he never has been in the past. He is in the finest physical condition of his career. His hands are sound.

If you look past the negro's last two triumphs, over fear-stricken Primo Carnera and Kingfish Levinsky, both of whom Baer softened earlier with knockouts, you find little in either his punching or his general record that indicates his ability to slay the iron man. Hans Eicke, a condition of the fight, he'll hit Baer hard, may even put him on the floor, but the tornado will sit up in so doing, I believe, and will end his sensational victory string of 20 knockouts in 24 professional fights.

Baer's hand should go up a terrific knockout victory after a technical struggle, about the 10th round.

Baer Boxes Lightly In Last Workout.

SPECTATOR N. Y., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Max Baer today wound up his training session for Tuesday's battle with Joe Louis, the boxing champ, with a few light punches and a few light blows. He was faster than at any time during his seven weeks here and much smarter in action as he held his right hand high and blocked most of the left jab and left hooks Feldman tossed at him. Baer made a little effort to punch back, containing himself with stabbing Feldman's head with a long left.

The former champion was in a jovial mood. Someone in the crowd asked him what he'd do to Louis and he promised, "I'll have him right out on the Yankee stadium and down a side street."

He bent down and kissed the board platform on which he has been doing his daily calisthenics, the hardest part of his work.

"Last for you," he said, "and boy does that feel good."

He weighed 210 pounds, and expects to fight with a little extra weight. He continues he may abandon his plans to fly to New York and take a late afternoon train tomorrow. Only real weather, though, too dangerous for flying, will force the new arrangement.

He will have his manager, Cecil Hoffman, and Jack Dempsey in his corner along with Maxie Kline, his trainer. His wife has decided to come to New York with his mother and father tomorrow, but all three will see a show instead of the fight.

Mick Walker Fights Eddie Whalen.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The metropolitan New York district assumes full control of the boxing situation this week with Joe Louis' 15-round bout with Max Baer in the Yankee stadium Tuesday.

Two other New York shows will offer interesting competition. On Monday, Eric Seelig, former middleweight and light heavyweight champion of Germany, makes his American debut against Al Rossi, a New York, in a 10-rounder at the St. Nicholas Palace. Ceto Locatelli, Italian contender for the lightweight title, faces Leo Feldman, of New York, at the Tri-Boro stadium Thursday.

On the same night, Mickey Walker, former welterweight and middleweight champion, tackles Eddie (Kid) Whalen, of New York, in a 10-rounder at Albany.

Braves Establish New Loss Mark.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Boston Braves established a new National league record for losses in a single season when they bowed to the Philadelphia Nationals in both games of a double-header today, 7 to 4 and 4 to 3.

The two defeats raised the Boston total losses of setbacks to 110, which is one more than was hung up by the Phillies in 1928.

The modern major league mark for losses is held by the Athletics who were turned back 117 times in 1916. The all-time record is 124 setbacks set by the Cleveland Indians, of the National league, in 1899.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Yank Had Once Been a Good Pitcher; But Now It Seemed His Baseball Career Was Over.

By MADELINE B. SMITH.

The western sun beat hotly on Yank's back as he stuffed his pitcher's glove in the hip pocket of his baseball pants and walked slowly toward the showers, his eyes intent upon the ground.

"Wait a minute, Yank!" The heavy-set catcher, Stubby Morse, ambled over, swinging his mask self-consciously. "I wanna talk to ya."

"I know, Stubby, you needn't tell me. As a battery, you and I are half a battery, and you're it." Yank dug his cleats into the right-field turf expressively.

"Now, don't take it that way, Yank," Stubby pleaded. "I only want to ask ya what's on your mind, what's been makin' ya fumble signals for the last week. You'd I been paid since we came up from the minors to play for the Yellows aint we? Spill it to yer buddy."

"There isn't anything to tell, Stubby. I'm merely losing the old control, and you know what that means!" He turned his thumb down significantly. Stubby frowned.

"Gee whiz, Yank, I bet there isn't another pitcher in the pro leagues who knows as much about baseball as you do," he broke out defensively. "I ain't never seen or played with a guy who knew just what to give to his own team in the league."

"He yed Yank speculatively. "It ain't no damn, now, is it?"

No, said Yank. "That is, only Mary McGrath. And that isn't what's putting me off my game, either, he answered defensively.

"Holy smokes! The boss' daughter! I ain't known. Say, just how serious is this?"

"We're going to be married if we win this game with the Yellows next week," Yank admitted. "I'm depending on my slice for the last series game, cause I can't swing it on my salary."

"I don't know what you'll have to play our pants off to win, though."

Two days later the scrubs were out on the diamond warming up for a practice game with the Yellows. They were getting in trim for the big battle with the Bucks. Both Yank and Stubby sat on the bench watching the scrubs toss the ball around and practice bunting.

"Stubby, I have a hunch I'm not going to play next Monday."

"You ain't so sure about that," Yank said. "I ain't so sure about that." Yank said. "I ain't so sure about that."

"Give it the old stuf, Yank," his catcher said. He moved off. "There's old man McGrath himself up in the box, watching the game."

"Don't kid me, Stubby. He's better right now than I am," Yank got up and discarded his sweatshirt before going out on the mound.

TOM MOONEY TO MAKE NEW TECHNICAL MOVE

Convicted Bomber's Attorneys Defeated on Every Hand in Hearing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—(AP) Tom Mooney's attorneys, defeated on every legal motion they have made this far in his habeas corpus fight for vindication, laid the groundwork today for one more technical attempt to broaden the scope of the case.

They utilized the weekend to assemble legal material in support of their motion for a state supreme court order requiring Mooney's presence in the San Francisco Superior Court when and if a deposition is taken from Warren K. Billings.

Complications appear. Like Mooney, Billings was convicted of the 1920 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing. However, the present hearing has no direct bearing on the status of the Billings case, although complications have appeared.

One of the Mooney motions denied last week was that Billings be brought here to testify at the hearing. Tomorrow the Mooney staff moved into the supreme court to argue that Mooney at least should be permitted to be present when the Billings deposition is taken.

Billings has complicated this with a threat to refuse to testify by deposition. He has prepared but not yet filed a petition seeking to stop the Mooney hearing by injunction unless allowed to attend personally and protect his interests.

Spencer Testimony Delayed. George T. Davis, of the Mooney staff, announced no effort would be made for the present to obtain testimony from Marshall R. Spencer, of Oregon City, Ore., who announced last Friday night he was on the roof of the Elfers building with Mooney, more than a mile from the explosion scene at the time of the blast.

At the outset of the hearing Mooney openly expressed doubt that the state supreme court would free him on the strength of the present hearing, but expressed optimism that he would win finally before the United States supreme court on an already projected appeal.

Mooney's new contention is that he is entitled to freedom and vindication on the ground he was convicted on perjured testimony in violation of his constitutional rights.

ATTRactions FOR FAIR POINTING TO ATLANTA

Many Are Augmenting Their Shows for Eight-Day Presentation Here.

Although it will not necessarily be the "last stand" of the season for many of the features and attractions which will be at the Southeastern Fair and Cotton States Exposition, most of the organizations are pointing toward the eight days here starting next Sunday as the most important of the season, fair officials said yesterday.

Flushed with having attracted record-breaking attendance at many of America's and Canada's leading fairs, George Hamid will send his Winter Garden revue here from the Greensboro (N. C.) fair, an exposition which Hamid is backing this year, as he does the North Carolina State Fair at Raleigh.

The Catherine Behney show will be greatly augmented here by added talent.

The Royal American shows played Tennessee State Fair last week and starts a week's stand at the Alabama State Fair at Birmingham this week, moving out Saturday, night. The same schedule has been in effect for Ab Jenkins and his tractor races.

California Frank and his Wild West Rodeo are due from the North Carolina ranch which Frank has leased and where the western sports aggregation is being held this week. A small detachment will provide some features at the Hickory (N. C.) fair.

The Hopi Indian Village will arrive Thursday or Friday, several days later than first anticipated. It comes from several Ohio fairs and is taking the week off in order to be all set up for next Sunday.

The AAA racers, who will be here next Sunday, are coming from Indianapolis in the west and many important eastern fairs, with a Saturday stopover at Greensboro for a few who will race in a Hankinson speedway race there Saturday.

Finds Interest in After Life Is Increasing

Increased Concern in After Life Outlined in Sermon by Dr. Peters

DR. JOHN BRANDON PETERS.

Increased Concern in After Life Outlined in Sermon by Dr. Peters

Editor's Note.—The Constitution this morning presents the 30th in a series of features on Atlanta ministers and their sermons. The pastors in their pulpits will be given on succeeding Mondays.

"Man's increasing concern in the after life is reflected in the number of fortune-tellers, clairvoyants and spiritualists preying upon the public," said Dr. John Brandon Peters, pastor of Druid Hills Methodist Episcopal Church South, in his sermon at the 11 o'clock service yesterday morning. His subject was "Personal Immortality."

Doctor Peters said in part: "As far back as recorded history man has been intensely interested in the after life. The prehistoric American Indian had his Happy Hunting Ground, the Mohammedan his Paradise and his Houris, the Buddhist his Nirvana, and the Christian his Heaven."

The years immediately following the great World War have been years of tremendous concern on the part of mankind concerning the future life. Evidence of this fact may be seen in the vast number of fortune-tellers, clairvoyants, and spiritualists who have been preying upon the public. Job's question still comes with force in this modern day, "If a man die, shall he live again? As I see it there are possibly several views as to its answer."

Denial of Future Life. First, There is the frank denial of any future life, commonly called atheistic or materialistic. Bertrand Russell in an essay on "A Free Man's Worship" said "Man is the product of causes which had no prevision of the end they were achieving. No fire, no heroism, no intensity of thought and feeling, can preserve the individual beyond the grave. All the labors of the ages, all the devotion, all the inspiration, all the noon-day brightness of human genius, are destined to extinction in the vast death of the solar system. The whole temple of man's achievement must inevitably be buried beneath the debris of a universe in ruins. All these things, if not quite beyond dispute, are yet so nearly certain that no philosopher which rejects them can hope to stand. Only within the scaffolding of these truths, only upon the firm foundation of unyielding despair, can the soul's habitation henceforth be safely built."

Mankind can never be satisfied in his yearning for immortality by Bertrand Russell's "unyielding despair." We must have a firmer and grander and a more logical answer to the question than Mr. Russell gives. Second, Spiritualism's answer. There have been many great men who have thought that in spiritualism they have found an answer. Such men as Arthur J. Balfour, the great statesman of England; Sir Oliver Lodge, the physicist; and even William James, the great professor at Harvard. There are difficulties with spiritualism's answers. The fact is that spiritualism's answers are too materialistic. There are too many tables, dark rooms, and mediums. Certain mysterious rappings in the dark do not prove the survival of the soul. In Sir Oliver Lodge's book "Beyond," the sad story of conversations with his boy who was killed in battle, is an illustration in point. Raymond's spirit had to be reached through a medium. The reply which the medium furnished about the spirit entering a friend's house in the other pastimes of the present life are too trivial to answer the serious man's question, "If a man die, shall he live again?"

Agnosticism. Third, There is the blind hope of agnosticism as voiced in the following verse: "Oh, yet we trust that somehow good Shall be the final goal of ill. That nothing walks with aimless feet. That all the world is his brother's keel. Or cast as rubbish to the void. When God hath made the pile complete."

The agnostic is blind and uncertain in his answer; we want certainty. Fourth, The Christian's answer. In this question of personal immortality the Christian's conception meets the issue.

Life's Finest Adventure. Charles Frohman stood on the deck of the Lusitania just as that great ship was settling in her watery grave. He felt all earthly hope was passed. He believed in happy endings for his work and was in his own ending to be happy. He stands there and says: "Why should we fear death? It is life's finest form of adventure."

WILL ROGERS' MEMORY WILL BE PERPETUATED

Vice President Garner Starts Nation-Wide Drive for Memorial Funds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(UP) America was asked tonight by persons prominent in every walk of life to donate pennies and dollars for a memorial to keep green and fresh the memory of Will Rogers.

Vice President John N. Garner announced he had accepted the chairmanship of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission. In turn, he appointed a committee to help collect funds and to decide on the type of memorial to be erected and where it should be placed.

That committee is a roll call of the "Who's Who" of the United States—actors, writers, businessmen, persons prominent in politics, professional men and journalists. It is an indication of the breadth of friendship and acquaintance possessed by this man who poked fun at everybody but never made an enemy.

To Speak Simply. "It is the belief of those of his friends who are fostering this movement," Garner said, "that the simplicity of Will Rogers himself and the form of a definite and enduring help to humanity to the simple things of life, which, after all, are the foundations of civilization. This principle is paramount."

"Suggestions as to the form of the memorial or memorials will be welcomed from any who participate in the movement, however small their contributions may be."

His direct assistants, Garner named Fred Stone, actor and one of Rogers' most intimate friends; Amos G. Carter, Port Worth, Texas, newspaper publisher; Governor E. W. Marshall of Oklahoma; and Rex Beach, the writer. They were appointed vice chairmen. Jesse H. Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, was appointed treasurer, and will receive contributions at his office here.

Operations Committee. "I also have appointed an operations committee," Garner said. "It will have general charge of the activities for raising funds and will be under the chairmanship of Owen D. Young. Other members of that committee will be Eddie Rickenbacker, America's war ace; F. Trubee Davidson, former chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; and Amelia Earhart."

"Every dollar and every dime contributed will go to the memorial fund in full, expenses of the committee being otherwise provided. The committee on memorials will be undertaken and will necessarily be guided by the amount of money raised."

Tentative plans call for memorials in Oklahoma, where Rogers was born, and in California where he worked and lived.

Other Associates. Among the other prominent persons associated with the campaign are: Clark Howell, Atlanta; John Paschall, Atlanta; R. W. Woodruff, Atlanta; George Ade, writer; Vincent Astor, New York; Hugh H. Hays, president of the United Press Association; Senator Borah; Billie Burke; Admiral Richard E. Byrd; Eddie Cantor; Harry Chandler, of the Los Angeles Times; Walter P. Chrysler; Clarence Darrow; Postmaster-General Farley; Henry Ford; Will H. Hays; Herbert Hoover; Roy W. ## New Living Room Opening at Rich's Today

Attractive Georgian living room in Rich's shop of interiors, which opens today to present a scheme of foyer and four livable and attractive rooms.

RICH'S PRESENTING MODEL INTERIORS

Newly Redecorated Rooms To Be Opened to the Public Today.

To those who are as interested in the ever changing styles in interiors, as in other phases of our modern lives, Rich's newly redecorated rooms in the shop of interiors, which are opened to the public today present an inspiring and colorful vista of what can and is being done in the world of decoration.

The staff of decorating specialists has incorporated "what has been and what will be" in their scheme of foyer and four highly livable and attractive rooms.

The living room is built around the Georgian theme, with paneled walls and turkey red carpeting used as a background for 18th century mahogany furniture.

The dining room is an admirable example of the American federal period with rich gold (exemplary of the lavish living of that era) in the draperies and wall paper, with heavy classic mahogany furniture used to create a room of the most dignified charm.

The two bedrooms, one inspired by the bride's house in New York and the other a young girl's room have more of a feeling for the future than for the past. The furnishings are swift and clean cut in line, the colorings in draperies, coverlets, rugs and walls, sympathetically tuned into the modern whole. The foyer, done in the most pleasingly dignified of the 18th century, shows what can be attractively done with small space. Rich's is extending an invitation to the public to visit these rooms.
